El Camino College Making Plans For Homecoming Next Week

Plans for the 1960 El Camino College Homecoming scheduled for the week of Nov. 7, are now being laid under the co-chairmanship of students Bob Barker, Hawthorne, and Miss Patricia Stevers, Inglewood.

Floats following the theme of "Pop Tunes," will be constructed and entered for exhibition in the annual parade Nov. 12, when East Los Angeles JC and El Camino meet in Murdock Stadium. Jim Peach, Inglewood, heading the floats committee, will check all entries to establish conformity in size and materials used in construction. The parade of floats will start its circle around the field at 1 p.m.

JUDGES for the event are being nominated by members of the Inter-Club Council and Rick Roelen, freshman class president of Hawthorne. The float judges will schedule the presentation of awards and trophies by the reigning Homecoming Queen to the winning float builders as a between-half feature of the ELA-Warrior game.

Rallies will be presented Nov. 10 and 11 to encourage enthusiastic participation. The first will be held in the Campus Center and will be highlighted by the crowning of the queen.

The second is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Women's Gym. Miss Rickie Fraboni, Gardena, and Darrow Bishop, Inglewood, head the committee for the latter event, which will feature a guest personality from the entertainment world.

STUDENTS WILL appear on campus in sportswear on Thursday of Homecoming week as a part of their participation in the annual Warrior Day.

Under the direction of Miss Marci Krane, Torrance, a snake dance around campus, and sports events will begin at 3 p.m., Thursday. A tug-o-war, three-legged race, pie-eating contest, wheel barrow race and orange rolling contest will take place to create enthusiasm between the fraternities and sororities.

ROSALIE Murray, commissioner of publications, and Nancy Wilkie, commissioner of public relations, will handle campus publicity pertaining to Homecoming Week. They are residents of Torrance and Inglewood, respectively.

Miss Henrietta Martin, Hamilton M. Maddaford, and William H. Davies are faculty advisors for Homecoming activities.

Northrop Continues 10-Year Rise In Volume, Credits Missile Age

Northrop Corporations earnings for the fiscal year ended July 31, 1960, climbed to $7,740,219, an increase of 5.6 per cent over the $7,325,404 earned in the preceding fiscal year. Thomas V. Jones, Northrop president, reported to shareholders this week.

Earnings were equal to $4.22 per share on the 1,835,516 shares outstanding on July 31, 1960, compared with $4.01 per share on the 1,824,755 shares outstanding a year earlier, Jones announced.

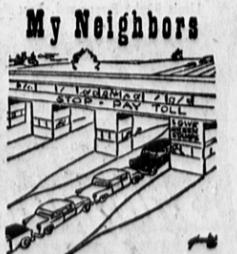

THIS WAS the fourth successive year that the company's earnings increased, continuing a ten-year upward trend. Net return on sales increased 22 per cent from 2.79 per cent reported in the preceding year to 3.31 per cent for the 1960 fiscal year.

"The past fiscal year was one in which the company's long range planning, research and development began to bear fruit," Mr. Jones stated. "Out of the company's plants and laboratories have come technologies which have put Northrop into new and expanding programs in electronics, missiles, aeronautics, space and communications systems."

JONES LISTED as important new programs Northrop's work in providing the guidance system for the air-launched Sky-bolt ballistic missile; automatic electronic evaluation equipment, gyroscopes, periscopes and radiometric sextants for the Polaris submarine-launched ballistic missile program; its work in the field of Laminar Flow Control; its new site activation program for the Titan missile; its work on space projects including Project Mercury and the Samos reconnaissance satellite; and its increasing volume on the T-38 Talon supersonic trainer program.
