 footpads who pulled off a series of burglaries here and one armed robbery over the week end.

A lone gunman, brandishing an automatic, forced owner John Lococco to turn over more than $1000 in cash at the Esquire Cleaning Shop, 3858 Sepulveda Blvd., early Tuesday. Lococco told investigating officers he had just opened, and that the money taken from cash boxes in the office represented collections from that shop and others in a chain. THE GUNMAN forced Lococco to remove his trousers before he fled in an auto described as a possible 1957 Chevrolet, off-white in color.

Among other reports filed this week, Edward H. Franco, 3332 W. 186th St., said a burglar broke a window to gain entrance to his home, and was frightened off when his daughter returned to the house for lunch.

THE HOUSE had been ransacked, drawers emptied, and clothing from closets and other storage places dumped onto the floor. About $135 in cash and a piggy bank with $7 were taken.

Burglars climbed over a fence and removed about $253 worth of tires from vehicles parked in Vel's Ford Sales storage lot at 1822 W. 213th St. A window in a light truck was forced open to obtain tools.

NANCY PANSELL reported that a sneak thief entered her husband's law office at 1614 Craven Ave. and fled with her purse, while she was in another office. The purse was found later in a service station trash barrel. Missing was a small amount of money and several sets of keys.

MRS. PAUL T. WARD of Redondo Beach reported the theft of books and appliances belonging to a former resident at a home at 21222 Ladeene Ave. The books were all printed in German.

Stylecraft Boats at 20411 Earl St., reported that someone climbed over a fence and took a skill-planer and two wood grinders with a total value of $378.

JOYCE BURT at 19910 Bernist Ave., said someone took two deep-sea poles and two expensive reels from the garage at that address.

Someone entered through the lath house to the Palos Verdes Begonia Farm at 4024 Pacific Coast Hwy. and emptied desk and file drawers in the office, but apparently left without taking anything, Jack Bauman told police.

... Court

 near Crenshaw Blvd. and 120th St.

Inclusion of Lomita, Rolling Hills, and the Palos Verdes Peninsula in the Southwest District instead of the South District would tend to shift the population center even farther south, the local committee was told.

A PROJECTION into 1980 indicated that the center then would be near 120th St. and Yukon Ave., Woolley and Remelmeyer said they had been told.

Torrance's campaign to move the court branch into this area is in opposition to a strong campaign being conducted by Inglewood officials to keep the court in that city.

THE INGLEWOOD campaign is being led by Vernon Spencer, a member of the board of governors of the State Bar Assn.; City Attorney Mark Allen, and City Manager Walter Hahn.

The Torrance committee, which was successful in establishing a branch of the South Bay Municipal Court on the city's civic center, was reactivated by the city council.

Channel Bridge On Schedule

The 213th St. Bridge over Dominguez Channel will be completed according to schedule on April, 1961, according to Supervisor Burton W. Chace.

In reporting progress on the project, Chace noted that all of the piles have been driven and the steel girders are now being fabricated.

The bridge, which was designed by the Los Angeles County Road Department, will stretch 248 feet in length and carry two lanes of traffic with safety curbs on both sides. The main structure will be composed of reinforced concrete deck on steel girders.

Jan Planz, Ed Houston, Barbara Higgins, Wayne Hughes, Pat King, and Loren Schwenk will be seen in major roles Friday, Dec. 2nd at 8 p.m. in the Torrance High School senior play, "Curtain Going Up."

The story by Gregory Johnston is a three act comedy depicting the production of a high school play. Play action takes place on the stage and in the auditorium during rehearsal and after the presentation.

AMONG THE myriad comic obstacles with which Miss Burgess, the drama teacher in the play, is faced are a grouchy custodian with a sharp tongue, the disappearance of the playbooks, a flamboyant professional actress with advice, and a banker's daughter driven to dirty tricks by her mother's ambitions. Other interesting and hilarious incidents help make this play very enjoyable. Major roles are supported by the following cast: Jim Christian, Sheryl Rice, Linda Smiley, Larry Melton, Richard Fisher, Nan Shirley, Paula Blankinship, Carolyn Shire, Bonnie Stanton, Carolyn Loupas, Gwen Piekutowski, Barbara Zubovich, and Jimmie Ruth Lawrence.
