Classes In Banking Under Way in Area

Harbor District Chapter, American Institute of Banking spring educational program opened with classes on Tuesday, Jan. 17 and again on Thursday, Jan. 19.

Twenty-two classes are being offered and will be held in Long Beach, Lakewood, Bellflower, Lynwood, Redondo Beach, San Pedro and Torrance. Supervision & Personnel Administration, one of the required courses to obtain the Senior Graduate Certificate in Management which is offered for the first time this year, will be held in Redondo Beach.

The Chapter's educational program is open to enrollment by all of its members through the Consuls in the banks and branches. The program which includes a fall and spring session of classes is planned and designed to afford an opportunity for each bank employee from bookkeeper to manager to further his knowledge of banking and related fields.

On Jan. 5 the program planned for the spring semester was presented by Thomas W. Clements, Chapter second vice president, to the Consuls at the Consul's Dinner held in the Petroleum Club, Long Beach, at 7 p.m.

On Jan. 11, Joe Galipeau, Chapter president, presided at the Faculty Dinner held in Brower's Restaurant, Long Beach, at 7:30 p.m. The spring session of classes was reviewed with the faculty by Frank Schiavone, Chapter first vice president.

Harbor District Chapter has been consistently growing over the years in membership and enrollment under the leadership of bankers dedicated to progress through education. The fall term was completed in December setting a new record for the Chapter in membership and enrollment with memberships totaling 1282 and enrollments 451.
