L.A. Calls Bids For Huge Street Improvement

Construction bids for the 208th and Harvard Blvd. Improvement District, largest single assessment job ever to be attempted in the 15th council district, have been called for July 13, it was reported today by John S. Gibson, president of the Los Angeles City Council.

The project, when completed, will provide for full improvement of all streets in the Strip area from 203rd St. to, and including, the north side of Torrance Blvd. Sidewalks, curbs, gutters, paving and sanitary sewers, where not already available, are included.

COUNCILMAN Gibson said that the construction estimate by city engineers exceeded a quarter of a million, with engineering, inspection and incidentals, raising the total to near $275,000. Most of this charge will be assessed to adjacent property owners.

Because Torrance Blvd. and Denker St. will be widened to major street standards, and because of certain improvements to be made in existing storm drain facilities, Councilman Gibson has arranged a $60,000 public fund contribution to the district.

ONLY 10 LOT owners of the 330 involved, filed protests at the recent public protest hearing.

Although a pending court action may cause some delay in the project, the councilman said he had asked for the bid call to eliminate any further delay, once the court action has been settled.
