

A desire for travel and further education prompted Miss Theodora R. Wallace to enlist recently at the Los Angeles Recruiting Main Station. Miss Wallace, daughter of Mrs. John W. Wallace, 5320 Via del Collado, left Los Angeles by jet for the Women's Army Corps Training Center, Fort McClellan, Ala., to begin eight weeks of military orientation. A graduate of Torrance High School, Class '58, Miss Wallace also attended El Camino College majoring in psychology and languages.

Enlisting for a three-year period Miss Wallace plans to specialize in the Linguist field and hopes to attend the Army Language School. She also plans to participate in the Army's off-duty education program for college credits towards a Baccalaureate Degree in Psychology.

During her military orientation at the WAC Center, Miss Wallace will be given 362 hours of formal instruction. This includes Military Customs and Courtesy, Administration, Career Guidance and Individual and Social Concepts.

After her basic orientation Miss Wallace, now known as Private Wallace, may be assigned directly to a special job or school in the career field selected on the basis of her aptitude and qualifications.
