make it eight. Prepare a sentence, place it by the phone, and read it — even if you must interrupt her.

Sample: "I'm sorry, dear, but I must run. If I find a minute later in the day I'll call you."

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is retiring in December. He's in excellent health, experienced in his trade and is only 55 years of age. He refuses to accept a part-time job which was offered to him at almost the same salary he's earning now. He says he is through working — and that now it's my turn.

I asked him if he didn't think raising seven kids was work and he said, "Work means earning a salary and you have never brought home a dime."

I have looked forward to the time when my children would be grown and I could take life a little easier. Now that the time is almost here I just hate to think of taking a job. Besides, I am not qualified to do anything but housework. What is your opinion?

—OLD GRAY MARE

Dear Mare: A woman who has raised seven children has done as much work as any man. Stay at home and enjoy the last of life — for which the first was made. You've earned the right to take it easy.

Confidential to SORRY NOW: You should have stayed with him until he "got his strength back." He said he was tired—not dead. Ask for another chance.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 30 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
