Tree Planting Program to Begin On State's Freeways in Future

The inauguration of a new program of planting and replacement of trees along existing and newly constructed freeways was announced today by State Director of Public Works Robert B. Bradford.

The tree planting program, which will be in addition to the landscaping and functional planting carried on by the Division of Highways for many years, won the prompt and enthusiastic endorsement of Governor Edmund G. Brown.

Bradford said that the new tree planting policy was recommended by State Highway Engineer J. C. Womack and approved by the California Highway Commission. The first allocations for tree planting projects are expected to appear in the state highway budget for the 1962-63 fiscal year which the commission will adopt this fall.

The new program envisions the planting of trees that will fit into local conditions and will not involve maintenance beyond watering them for a year or two.

COST OF the tree planting will vary from $100 to $2,500 a mile, depending on the areas involved.

"The tree planting will be particularly valuable," Bradford said, "where a freeway traverses a rural area in which many existing trees have had to be removed from the right of way during construction."

The governor called attention to the program of painting state highway bridges green which he announced a year ago and which is now well under way.

"This is another most welcome step," the governor said. "I am sure it will receive the whole-hearted approval of Californians as well as visitors to our state."

GOVERNOR BROWN, in commenting on the new program, called it "another step in the continuing effort to make our state highways beautiful as well as safe and efficient."

"We are being fair to ourselves and to nature by replacing trees that have to be removed for construction and planting others where they will be effective. Trees have always been a part of California's beautiful landscape and I am glad that they will remain so as our highways extend their influence."

"IT COMES at a time when the full measure of California's expanding highway program is being felt and miles of freeways are unrolling through the countryside. This countryside can be enjoyed to the fullest in its natural setting, and trees area part of that setting."
