View of Space Communications Promised State Fair Visitors

A view of space communications today and a peek into the future awaits visitors to the Pacific Telephone's exhibit at the California State Fair. The extensive communications exhibit features a prize-

Free demonstration telephone calls will be given away throughout the fair's run. The calls, to any city in the United States, make use of direct distance dialing service. The human voice can be seen as well as heard at a sound transmission display. Visitors may also become telephone operators and test their speed in completing a call with the latest electronic equipment. Another test of speed will let fairgoers compare push-button calling with the traditional dial telephone. There are dozens of individual displays featuring the newest communications achievements from missile guidance systems to telephones of the future. The exhibit is located in the Telephone Building near the fair's main entrance.

Urge Motorists Join Truckers

County Supervisors this week urged all motorists to join the American Trucking Assn. in the Labor Day safety campaign by driving with car and truck lights on during the 72-hour holiday. The motion, presented by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, was adopted unanimously by the Board.
