

What About Tomorrow?

Unlimited Future Seen for Torrance

The job of a Chamber of Commerce is never done.

Even as we make this report, new buildings rise to house new industries, new families, and the new students who are entering the city's school system.

What tomorrow's mail will bring, or what a telephone call from an industrial or commercial executive might hold for Torrance no one can, with certainty, foretell.

This much is certain, however. Torrance is destined by its presently attained ranking among its neighboring communities to play in increasingly dominant role in Los Angeles County's great and growing Southwest.

It has been dubbed "The Capital City of the Southwest," and before another year passes should be well on the way to emplanting that fact in the minds of its neighbors in the Southland.

To the future of the city, your Chamber of Commerce is dedicated.

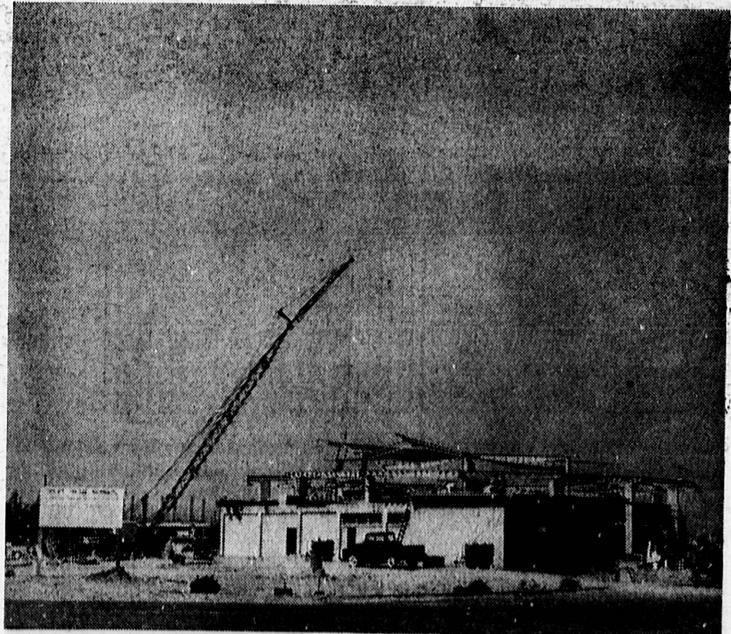

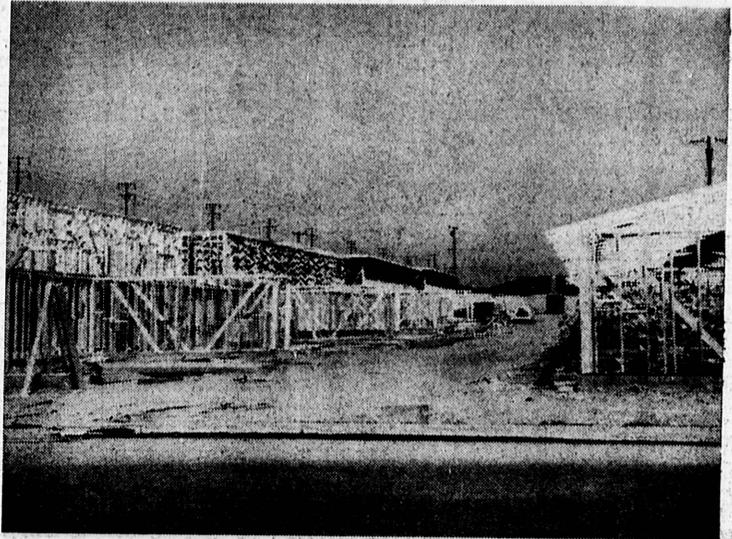

If the program here advanced is realized, Torrance can only have the bright future which the officers of your Chamber believe it is destined to achieve.

This Page Sponsored By . . .

MOBIL OIL COMPANY

TORRANCE REFINERY
3700 W. 190th St.

the
ed 24:
syl
Lo
"y
I t
as
the
por
a l
be
war
get
M til
hum
und
"W
have
ways
next
be c
again
tiani
no
less
educ
shec
the c
not v
same
Mr
to ch
we w
the th
the pc
comin
Mrs.
Stanhu
Lomita
"I dor
so. I ll
United
is the