Blowguns Appearing

Homemade blowguns capable of killing are turning up in alarming numbers among Torrance youngsters, according to Torrance police. The device is made of aluminum tubing about six feet long. The dart is made of a cone of paper which is weighted with wax or putty and has a nail on the front. The blowguns have more penetrating power than a .22 caliber rifle, police said. Humane Society officers report they have had to remove darts from the blowguns from cows, pigeons, dogs and cats.

Police warned that any child responsible for injuring anyone with the blowguns will be with a deadly weapon. City Councilman Willys Blount asked Tuesday for an ordinance specifically outlawing the deadly weapons.

Tavern Entered

Thieves cut a hole in the roof of Soaring Sixties, 23900 Crenshaw Blvd., early Sunday morning and made off with $200 in rolled coins, from $125 to $150 in currency, and an unknown amount of change, liquor, and a pistol, owner Clement Des Coteaux reported to police.
