

Red Cross Preparedness Means Mother and Baby Care to Many

Preparedness training falls into many categories, but for the expectant parents it means the mother and baby care course offered free throughout the year by Red Cross. An eye-opening experience resulted in a visit to one of these class sessions this week at the regional Red Cross office, 390 W. 7th St., San Pedro. There a group of oversize ladies and nervous near-fathers were getting briefed in everything from diapering baby to burping him.

IN THIS particular class, taught by specially trained registered nurse, Mrs. Arthur R. Kanthack, the majority of those enrolled are first time most-parents, but among the group is a prospective grandmother and another expecting her second child after giving birth to her first, seven years ago.

All of these persons are learning the ABCs of prenatal care that are helping them enjoy the time before the nine-month wonder's debut—as well as the baby's birthday and homecoming.

TEST RUN . . . Practical training in mother and baby care is taught in Red Cross sponsored courses under specially trained registered nurses. One such nurse, Mrs. Arthur R. Kanthack (right), indicates courses are not restricted to expectant mothers, but for anyone who will be caring for the newborn. From left are Mrs. G. H. Miles and her mother, Mrs. Frieda Sieker; Mrs. Charles E. Miller and her husband; and Mrs. Kanthack.

DURING THE past year, 169 such free courses—each consisting of seven two-hour sessions—were given in 11 different locations throughout the area covered by the Los Angeles ARC chapter with 2,709 persons receiving certificates of completion. Red Cross courses on mother and baby care have been offered since 1913, but not until 1947 were men invited to join in the classes. "Time was when nothing much was expected of a new father after he had passed out cigars, but today with modern maternity procedures allowing many mothers to return home three days after baby comes, papa usually has to do a stint in the nursery until mother is back on her feet," explains Mrs. Kanthack.

NOW THE almost-fathers learn that even a 72-hour old baby won't break and along with a host of other things, one prospective father, from Torrance, says he has mastered such techniques as the "football carry"—a masculine method of holding an infant on one arm and bracing him against the waist. The expectant grandmother, Mrs. Frieda Sieker, attending the classes with her daughter, Mrs. G. H. Miles of Lomita says she's "brushing up on the latest methods to qualify as a good babysitter."

MRS. KANTHACK says that since 1947 the majority of the 30,000 persons who have taken the Red Cross course are the almost-parents who don't enroll until zero hour is imminent. Hence, just before a recent session, one husband phoned it that he and his wife couldn't make it. His reason, the missus was already on her way to the delivery room.

DURING THE past year, eight mother and baby care courses were offered through the Torrance-Lomita, Palos Verdes Peninsula, Gardena, San Pedro and Wilmington Red Cross branches and given at the regional headquarters in San Pedro.

The next course is slated to begin June 4 and will be taught from 7:30-9:30 on Mondays and Wednesdays.
