'Frank Buchman's Secret' Exciting, Revolutionary

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

The life of Frank Buchman and his influence in shaping the thoughts of dedicated men throughout the world has been put down in writing in an arresting book: an exciting, revolutionary book that will challenge, and give hope; and stir every thoughtful reader to consider his own part in the struggle for a world that must find unity or blow up.

Statesmen, seeking a foreign policy more productive than antiphonal threats and withdrawals can find in it the answer they have been feverishly seeking to deadlock, Communist take-over and war.

It is a little book—in size; but the initial atomic bomb was no bigger than a child's balloon, and it changed life for every human being throughout the world.

It is a startling book. Why did four of the top abbots of the Buddhist faith, a month before Buchman's death, travel half-way round the world to tell him that, in their eyes, he was a man such as "comes to the world only once in a thousand years to show humanity the right way?"

When he died, why did twenty-two heads of state and prime ministers send messages of tribute, many speaking of the profound effects he had had upon themselves and their nations?

Why did a leading Scandinavian statesman speak of him as "the greatest man of our age," a leading German editor, as "the conscience of the world?"

Here, in this book are the answers, in terms of one man's boundless caring for people, one man's unwavering dependence on God.

"Frank Buchman's Secret" is a fascinating story, throbbing with life, glowing with color, radiant with assurance. The great and the obscure stride across its pages—generals, charwomen and kings; phyllosophers, industrialists and labor leaders; white South Africans and black revolutionaries; dedicated Communists, taxi-drivers, Muslim cabinet ministers and hillbilly singers from Hollywood. One and all, Frank Buchman gave their lives a new direction and a new purpose. That purpose, transcending class and color and creed, was nothing less than to build a fear-free, hate-free, greed-free world, by becoming themselves, first of all, free of fear and hate and greed.

"Buchman saw that peace was not just an idea, but people becoming different." Mr. Howard writes, "and that the true peacemakers were those willing to pay the price of it by giving their lives to bring millions under God's control. That was his life and his secret."

With peace among the nations today the basic condition of human survival, this book sounds a summons to every government of the world. It sounds a summons, above all, to the government of the United States, whose coinage bears the motto, "In God we trust," and whose Great Seal, reproduced on the back of her dollar bills, shows the capstone of the American pyramid to be the Eye of God.

"Frank Buchman's Secret," by Peter Howard, published by Doubleday & Company, Inc. ($2.75), Garden City, New York.

Scouts Plan Good Turn Day Saturday

Thousands of Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers of the Los Angeles Area Council, will perform a Patriotic Good Turn on May 26 which will rival any previous similar effort in this area.

An estimated 30,000 uniformed boys will mobilize on Saturday, May 26, to knock on every door in their area, asking friends and neighbors to join them in displaying the American flag on patriotic holidays, especially Memorial Day, May 30; Flag Day, June 14; and Independence Day, July 4.

EACH CUB, Scout, and Explorer will carry a red, white and blue card with him. On the front will be an American flag, and printed on the reverse side will be a short message which the Scout will read to the householder.

The message simply asks the Scout's neighbor to "Join Scouting's Patriotic Good Turn and Fly Your Flag." It points out that millions of Americans will display their colors on patriotic holidays and Scouts are doing their Patriotic Good Turn by pledging to call on their neighbors to urge them to do the same.

"This is a wonderful way for Scouts to do their Good Turn for their country," said E. C. (Ted) McDonald, chairman of the promotion committee for Patriotic Good Turn Day.

HE POINTED out that every Scout pledges on his honor to "do my best to do my duty for God and my country." The Patriotic Good Turn also fits into the advancement program of Scouts, since this would help fulfill the citizenship merit badge requirement for doing something for one's country.

In addition to the card which Scouts will read to neighbors, units will have many other opportunities during the patriotic holidays ahead to perform community services in keeping with the patriotic theme.
