them and have considered quitting and taking a job elsewhere. Yet I hate to leave because I'm very fond of these people and this has been my home for five years.

—3:00 A.M.
Dear 3:00 A.M.: The fact that you were not sent packing is evidence that these people are genuinely interested in you.

Stay where you are and improve your behavior. In time you'll overcome your feelings of discomfort. Running away would solve nothing. You'd merely take your guilt with you.

Dear Ann Landers: Do you have a right to be an attendant at the wedding? My son was married recently and the bride's whole family was in the wedding party. Her only sister was too young to be a bridesmaid, so she was an overgrown flower girl.

My son's brother was his best man, but his sister and her husband were ignored. Several people have asked me why and I have no answer.

There seem to be no hard feelings in the family. My son and his bride have already visited my daughter and her husband and they get along fine. May I have your comment, please? — ROAN-OK

Dear Roanoke: I have no comment and if you're smart you'll have no comment either.

It would have been nice had the groom's only sister been asked to be the matron of honor, since married women should not be asked to be bridesmaids.

She was not asked, however, and the wedding is over, so I suggest you forget it. Digging up a buried bone of this kind only makes you sound like a trouble-maker.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in love without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed, envelope.
