El Camino Students Plan Fashion Show

Clothing made in home economics classes is scheduled to be shown at the ninth annual fashion show at El Camino College at 3 p.m., today, in the north patio of the Campus Theater.

"Attire will represent a cross section of all work done during the school year and will be divided into two categories," Mrs. Hattie Roberts, fashion show director, said.

The two categories will consist of apparel made by beginning sewing students as well as those in the more advanced classes.

Clothing types ranging from simple to ambitious in materials from cottons to woolens and silk will be shown against a natural setting, Mrs. Roberts commented, and will feature children's and men's clothing as well as women's attire.

Alternating narrators for the program are Joan Juckes and Janet Farrand, who are enrolled in advanced sewing classes. Music will be provided by Helen Dell at the organ.

Modeling men's attire will be Thomas George, Denny Rollins and Ken Suzino. Girls will model their own styles. Refreshments will be served following the program. The public is invited to attend as guests of the college.

Mr. Bollington will demonstrate several CONN organs. The artist calls upon the full spectrum and fluency of the instrument when he emulates sounds of marimbas, accordians, busy fairgrounds, wolf whistles, and bird whistles to list a few. Bollington has found the complete range of his instrument. His concert selections and popular request numbers leave little doubt to this fact in the minds of the audience.
