Gas Co. Wins Two Awards In Contests

Southern California Gas Co. merited two first place awards recently following competition in separate contests, according to local officials of the utility.

First place award for a television presentation on the company's Balanced Power concept was accepted by advertising manager J. S. Spaulding at the 59th annual gathering of the Advertising Assn. of the West in Denver.

Sixty members of the advertising fraternity served as judges and arrangements chairman for the 10 different categories in the 1962 All-Western Advertising Craft Competition sponsored by the AAW, according to the announcement.

Second top award in the annual editor's publicity contest sponsored by the Community Chest, was merited by the utility's company publication, "So-Cal Gas News," for a special charity issue published last October.

First place plaque was presented to the newspaper's editor, Robert W. Taylor, by contest chairman Donald McCullough of Hughes Aircraft. Judges for the contest were members of the Industrial Press Assn. of Greater St. Louis.

The special issue for which the plaque was awarded was published last year to signal the start of Southern California Gas Co.'s 1961-62 AID-United Givers campaign. During the charity drive, the company boosted its total contribution to the in-group donor organization to well over $2 million, according to the utility officials.

Group Discusses Book About Zen

Watt's book, "The Way of Zen" was discussed recently at a meeting of the Torrance Great Books Group. The session was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom E. Witt, 408 Via La Selva. The group's August discussion will be on "Alice in Wonderland."
