ECC Student Lynne Evans Winner in Speech Event

Lynne Evans, second semester student at El Camino College, placed first in oral interpretation at Western States Speech Tournament held Nov. 22-24 at San Fernando Valley State College. "This is the best job any student has done in my two years at El Camino," Jerry Borden, speech coach, commented. After three rounds of preliminaries, competition was cut from 63 women to 10 in semi-finals. Miss Evans competed against four women in finals and was awarded three first places and two seconds. While attending high school in Lincoln, Neb., Miss Evans represented the state at the National Speech Tournament held in San Diego. She qualified for semi-finals with her dramatic interpretation of Medea. In 12th grade, she was chosen the best dramatic speaker in eight midwestern states. An English major, Miss Evans transferred to El Camino last semester after attending Fresno City College for one semester. Her vocational plans are undecided at present, but she would like to attend San Francisco State College after completing her studies at El Camino. Los Angeles is her birthplace.

TO DEVELOP her theme of the wind, Miss Evans used Carl Sandburg's "Wind Song"
