 tied-up equipment for which the company gets no revenue. Somebody has to pay for those shenanigans, and who do you think it is? You and I, Bub.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm enclosing a clipping from the society section of our newspaper. As you can see, six hostesses have joined hands to give a luncheon for a bride-to-be.

I can understand two women giving a party together, particularly if they are related, or if one has a large home and the other has not. But SIX women hosting one party. Really! I know two of these women well, a third is a casual acquaintance, and the other three have never been inside my home.

I've always been taught that when one accepts an in-itation he is obliged to reciprocate. Does this mean I am now indebted to six women who get together to give one party? Please enlighten me.—LUMPED

Dear Lumped: Sorry, Old Girl, but when several hostesses band together to entertain you and you accept the invitation, you are then obliged to each of them. If this sort of "togetherness" irritates you, don't accept.

Confidential to Torn: "What you don't know can't hurt you" is a meaningless collection of words. What you don't know CAN hurt you—and plenty. Ignorance is dangerous. Get the correct information from your physician and stop burying your head like an ostrich.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How to Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 8

At one time or another, almost every toddler comes down with a minor misery that requires stay-abled treatment. Big problem is how to keep a runabout happy in bed (when active amusements are denied him). Aside from favorite stay-put toys, TV or mother-stories, have you given thought to these cheer-uppers?

- An old purse, filled with little treasures, for the important business of putting in and taking out things.
- Crayons and a brown paper bag to pursue "artistic tendencies."
- A jolly game of "nurse and patient" at sponge-bath time, followed by a surprise snack of a Gerber Fruit Juice.

Convoluted mealtimes take on special magic when you offer eye appealing trays. (Gerber Junior Foods are famous for appetizing colors.) Appetites are encouraged mightily, too, when you serve the foods your baby is fondest of.

For a luscious lunch, how about one of the tasty Gerber Junior Dinners? They're happy combinations of vegetables, meat and cereal, deftly blended for flavor interest; subtly seasoned to bring out the best in the basic ingredients. And, they're processed to protect food values.

How about a go at Gerber Junior Macaroni, Tomato, Beef and Bacon . . . side-dished with Creamed Spinach and followed by Banana Pudding. There's a happy color combination for you.

Important memo from Dan Gerber: "Improvement of processing methods to protect food values has always been a basic part of Gerber's continuing research program. Take Gerber Egg Yolks. Our technicians developed an exclusive method for processing egg yolks which reduces the cooking time. The happy result? Better preservation of food values than is possible with other methods—plus uniform consistency, improved color and flavor." Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.
