... Ann Landers

gave me no orders but he did say, "I think that kid is nuts." Do you feel the hair job is reason enough to stop going with him?—PIE FACE
Dear Face: The boy sounds so flakey that if you don't figure the hair job is reason enough to drop him just wait a few days. Curly-locks will do something else soon.

Dear Ann: We have some close friends who accept every one of our invitations and half the time they wind up cancelling out at the last moment.

My husband says these people place a very low value on our friendship. He wants me to stop inviting them, I'm reluctant to take his advice because they are a dear couple and the woman in particular, would give me the shirt off her back.

She is a rather frail person and was institutionalized after the birth of each of her two children. Do you think this may have something to do with the last minute cancellations? — RESERVING JUDGMENT

Dear Reserving: Indeed I do. Some people accept invitations in good faith but when the time comes, they aren't up to going.

Don't count on this couple for a third and fourth at bridge, but invite them to your larger parties and be compassionate when they don't make it.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How to Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
