YOUR PROBLEMS
by Ann Landers

'Tell Him to See A Head Doctor . . .'

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago my husband, as a gag, wrote to a teenage girl who was looking for a pen pal. Gerald got her name out of a magazine. I thought it was pretty funny at the time. He let me see the letter before he sent it, and I must say he certainly did invent a believable character.

I stopped laughing about six months later when I discovered Gerald was writing to 12 girls in 9 different states. His hobby has become such an important part of his life he can't wait till he gets home to learn if he has a letter from Yuma or Bakersfield. He telephones during his lunch hour to find out what has arrived.

Gerald is 56 years old and has been a wonderful husband. If we had had children our lives would have been complete.

He says his hobby is a harmless one because he never intends to see any of these girls. I hate to demand that he stop writing letters because he seems to get such a kick out of it. Your advice is needed.

—GERALD'S WIFE
Dear Wife: A 56-year-old man who gets his kicks by pretending he is a teenager needs more help than I can provide. Tell him to see a head doctor.

Dear Ann Landers: What shall I do about a so-called girl friend? (I will call her Maurine.) We are both 16 and live in a town where the boys are so busy tinkering with their cars they haven't discovered girls yet. There are only about two girls in our whole school who get asked for dates and we are not those two.

Maurine and I had plans for Friday night. We were going to have supper at my house and then go to the 7 o'clock movie.

At 4:30 p.m. Maurine telephoned, practically out of her mind with excitement. Rickey who is a great big round wheel at school had just called her and asked her to (Continued on Page 16) for children and adults alike, will be the zoo, featuring many unusual animals and birds. This will include "Jumbo" the white burro, two shetland colts, black monkey, beautiful tropical birds, a display of reptiles (in glass cages), plus many other animals. The zoo will be supervised by genuine "Safari Hunters" as zoo keepers, assisted by mysterious "Ubangi" natives.

The Las Vecinas Chorus will provide entertainment for the affair under the direction of Mrs. E. R. Harvey. Husbands of club members will be "flipping and serving" pancakes in the rotunda of the park between the hours of 7 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Co-chairmen for the breakfast and fair are Mrs. Donald V. Edwards and Mrs. John W.

Walti. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. E. A. Bowen or at the entrance of the park.
