yakkling for anybody. Thank you.—RUSS

Dear Russ: Sorry, but you'll have to get help somewhere else. To some women the telephone is useful therapy. They are stuck at home with kids, diapers, housework, cooking and laundry. Yakkling on the horn is the most fun they have.

Why don't you ask your wife to free up the phone every hour on the hour for ten minutes and then you'll be sure to get her.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mother whose heart is breaking. I raised eight children. My seventh child—a girl 18—has just run off and married a boy none of us care for.

We believed she would get tired of him or see for herself that he was no good, so we let her spend as much time with him as she wanted. We even let her spend weekends at his home, at the invitation of his parents, of course.

My husband and I have a strong suspicion that our daughter ran off and married the boy because she is pregnant. We believe the whole mess is the fault of the boy's parents. They should have kept a closer watch. When I told off the boy's mother last week she slammed the receiver down in my ear.

Now the woman has poisoned our daughter's mind against us and she has cut us out of her life completely. What can we do?—MADE FOOLS OF

Dear Fools: Take turns kicking yourselves for letting your daughter do as she pleased—and vow to do a better job with your other children.

It was YOUR responsibility to guide the girl and to instill in her a sense of personal worth.

Parents who allow a teenage daughter to spend weekends at her boy friend's home and then blame HIS parents because they didn't keep an eye on them are looking for a scapegoat.
