YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

'Return Borrowed Book Day' Set

Dear Ann Landers: Something happened today that has made me thoroughly ashamed. Today was the day I decided to give the library a top-to-bottom cleaning and polishing. This meant taking all the books off the shelves. I ran across three books which I had "borrowed." One of these books was personally autographed by the author and I promised faithfully to return it within the week. That was last summer.

Then I got to thinking of all the books I had loaned to friends who had promised to return them—and never did.

Millions of people read your column, Ann, and I'll bet thousands who are reading these words have some borrowed books on their shelves. Will you print this letter and proclaim today "Return Borrowed Book Day"? Thank you.

—DEE TROIT

Dear Dee Troit: Be it known that today, June 13, 1963 is proclaimed to be "Return Borrowed Book Day" in the United States, Canada and all foreign countries in which this column appears.

And thank you for reminding me. I'd better return a couple of books myself.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 11-year-old son has refused to do one thing in school all year long.

I've talked to his teacher, the principal, and other mothers. I've consulted a psychologist, our minister, our family physician, the eye doctor and the ear doctor. They all say he is healthy, normal, and intelligent—not to worry, that he will study when he is ready. The question is when will he be ready?

I might add he is rather large for his age, quite handsome, and the girls like him. He hates competitive games and soap and water. I've praised, threatened, bribed and pleaded. Nothing works. What do I do next?

—STYMIED BUT HOPEFUL
Dear Stymied: Why don't you try leaving him alone? This boy sounds like a kid whose mother is pushing him too hard. He may "be ready" when you take the whip to his back.

Dear Ann Landers: I married this girl when she was 18. I thought she was mature because she had already finished two years of college, but I have learned that maturity and intelligence are not the same thing.

We have had 18 months of what I will freely admit has been less than a perfect marriage. We seem to be arguing continuously about unimportant things. I have long suspected that my wife picks fights so she can have an excuse to get mad at me and sleep in the guest room.

Yesterday I received a letter in the mail. It was from my mother-in-law. This letter listed all the things my wife is unhappy about. Most of the complaints had to do with our sex life. I was shocked. The letter ended with, "I don't expect a reply, of course. This letter is just to help you iron things out with Susan."

What is a mature reaction to a situation such as this?
FRED

Dear Fred: If communications between you and your wife are so poor that she must complain to her mother, something is drastically wrong.

You both need professional counseling. All married couples have problems, and talking them out is healthy and constructive. When a couple can't talk, they should seek outside help.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dianas Plan 1963-64 Year at First Meeting

Mrs. John Hansford, newly installed president of the Redondo Beach Dianas, Federated Junior Women's Club, presided at the club's first business meeting for the year 1963-64 on Monday evening, June 3.

Mrs. Roger Gardemann, immediate past president, presented the awards that the Dianas won at the state convention of the California Federated Women's Clubs, Junior Membership, which was held May 23, 24, and 25 at Disneyland Hotel. They received the Josephine Seaman award which is an award presented for a project started and completed in a one year period. The Dianas received this for their efforts in spearheading a clothing drive for La Paz, Redondo Beach's "Sister City." First place award was presented to the club for their youth projects.

Because of their "Build a Better Community Projects" the Dianas won $100.00 as first runnerup in the medium size division. Third place honors were awarded for art, international affairs, and Americanism.

The theme for the year will be "Pathway to the Rainbow" and the motto, chosen from the book of Proverbs, "Give her the fruit of the hand and let her own works praise her in the gates of Heaven."

The recording secretary, Miss Sara Mitchell, and the treasurer, Mrs. Anthony Credico, Jr., gave their reports. Mrs. Elden Pratt, first vice president, presented the proposed social calendar for the coming year, which includes such affairs as a family picnic, get-acquainted dinner and orientation for new provisionals, a rush luncheon, Gold Rush Dance costume party, Christmas dance, children's Christmas party, husbands' Night, Easter breakfast, formal installation and a combined mothers and seniors dinner with installation of officers for 1964-65.

Mrs. Eric Lindgren, second vice president, ways and means chairman, announced the Dianas will participate in the South Bay Fair. Also there would be a joint party with the Chamber of Commerce, a rummage sale and a fashion show.

Mrs. Martin Galos, membership chairman, declared that all members should submit the names of their provisionals for the coming year as soon as possible.

Mrs. Mary Williams, corresponding secretary, read a letter of transfer for Mrs. J. L. Colley and she was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Arthur Callen, philanthropy chairman, related the plans for the next party to be held at the Las Palmas Home for Emotionally Disturbed Girls which the club had voted to support as one of its philanthropy projects for the year.

Coordinator for the year from the evening division of the Women's Club is Mrs. Winifred Van Gilder. Coordinators from the Senior Women's Club are Mrs. A. L. Hammond and Mrs. Daisy Odom Geery.
