...Let's Go

By LARRY MACARAY

The Art Show put on by the Norair division of the Northrop Corporation in Hawthorne was such a difficult one to judge. Don Greco of their Personnel Activities invited me to have lunch in the company cafeteria before doing the actual judging. One long wall of the cafeteria served as the hanging area for the employe show, and it brightened such an elegant employe cafeteria.

The other three judges were Jessica Wintrow, past president of the Santa Monica Art Association; Audubon Tyler, art instructor for 12 years at Art Center School in Los Angeles, and Harold Wennstrom, chairman of the division of Fine Arts at El Camino College. Two of us are inclined toward the more contemporary trend in Art and the other two judges are still in the old traditional style of painting, which made the actual judging take about twice the time it should have.

THERE WERE 76 entries in three classifications of oil, watercolor and dry mediums. Last year, on the occasion of their 14th Annual Art Show, there were 56 entries. This certainly speaks well for John Kayser, the Art Club commissioner, who apparently worked extra hard to make this show a success. By the way, Kayser had two beautiful nudes and one portrait entered in the show.

What a pleasant surprise to find out (after the judging) that the winner in the dry medium class was Tom Kulp, an old student of mine at Torrance High back in 1956. His work was a combination collage and india ink, showing a well drawn sailboat with a layer of orange cellophane paper over it. Tom was a good artist even when he was in high school, so I assume that he must be doing pretty well at Norair.

FIRST PLACE in oils went to C. A. Caudill with a very small painting, "Horse Traders." Second place was really earned by John Kayser with his portrait of "Marge," while my choice for the number one painting in the show only came in third in the final judging. It was "Boats On End" by Erling G. Henrikson, a rather abstract version of some boats on a beach.

I've judged everything from a beauty contest to a crafts show (not really everything) and I must say that Northrop really put out the red-carpet treatment for us, and I hope I am asked back for one of their future shows. The company spares no expense in providing the employes with the opportunity to exhibit their works publicly, whether the talented Northrop artists are amateur or professional.

Another exciting incident for me this week was being able to participate in the Senior Aud. Call at Torrance High School. In between giving final exams at El Camino, I dashed over to THS auditorium, and it was almost like "old home week" seeing the seniors practicing for the rather serious aud call. My part in the long program of awarding certificates, scholarships, money, etc., was to present a watercolor painting on behalf of talented Tamara Houston to the student body, Dr. Carl Ahee accepting.

TAMARA WAS a student of mine for three years and when you have this much time invested in a student, somehow every little success provides a certain amount of satisfaction. This being her senior year, Tamara was eligible to participate in the accelerated program at ECC. Her maturity in art is far beyond the high school level and her training at ECC managed to earn her an honorable mention in the watercolor class at the recent ECC Student Art Exhibit.

This idea of having the most outstanding senior art student leave a painting to the student body, that actually will hang in the school library, was started in 1957. The student chosen in that year was Gary Parton, who has just recently signed a contract to teach art at North High School. He'll do an excellent job there . . . of that I am sure.

RUDY MOHR, president of the Gardena Rotary Club, came out to the college this week to make a selection of student art work eligible for the Rotary Art Award. We instructors had pre-screened the student work so his selecting was not too difficult. Jim Buttram won a $50 prize in the Jewelry and Crafts classification. Bonnie Meyer and Jack Rogers split a $50 first in the Design section. The Drawing and Painting category was the hardest to find the winner for, so it finally boiled down to another tie for first by Kyle Workman and Forrest Staggs, who split another $50 award.

Kyle Workman, a product of nearby North High School, is a most promising art student who recently ran away with several awards at the ECC Art Show. The big surprise came in his winning the Hickson Art Award to the most outstanding art student — particularly because he had a great deal of very mature and talented competition.

Minutemen

Fifty Youths to Enlist at Once

More than 50 youths from the southwest area will be enlisted in the U.S. Air Force on July 5. The group is the largest single group of enlistees from the area since World War II.

To be known as the South Bay Minutemen, the group will enlist together and complete basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. Enlistment ceremonies will be held at South Bay Center, climaxing a week of festivities for the group.

LT. COL. Donald D. Bryant, commander of the Southern California Air Force Recruiting Area, will be the featured speaker at the Alondra Club under the sponsorship of the Lawndale Rotary Club.

Tuesday, July 2, the City of Torrance will host the minutemen for a tour of Vandenberg Air Force Base. On July 3, Torrance will host the flight and their parents at the Jump 'N Jack Restaurant.

THE GROUP will be guests of Pacific Ocean Park on Independence Day. Final processing will be completed at the Torrance Air Force Recruiting Station July 5, and the flight will board buses for a fish fry in Redondo Beach.

Ceremonies at the South Bay Center will begin at 1 p.m. Friday, July 5. Among the guests will be the mayors of Torrance, Redondo Beach, Gardena, Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach, Palos Verdes, and Lawndale—the home towns of the members of the flight.

Col. Gene Raymond will conduct the enlistment ceremonies.

MRS. ETHEL FARNUM of Lawndale has been selected as the official flight mother. Mrs. Farnum's third son, Ted, is a member of the flight. Her older two sons are currently on active duty with the air force.

Following the ceremonies at South Bay Center, merchants will present the flight with gifts. The youths will board a bus for Los Angeles Interna-

New Production Manager Appointed at Cal Metal

Earl Babbitt, former plant manager of the Beall Pipe Co. of Portland, Ore., has joined the Cal Metal Corp. of Torrance as production manager.

Any young man between 17 and 20 who desires to join the South Bay Minutemen should contact the Air Force recruiter at 1616 Cabrillo Ave., or telephone FA 8-1404 for information.

Gerald L. Revell, president of the Torrance firm, also announced the resignation of Robert Steward, a vice president of Cal Metal Corp.

Babbitt will be in charge of the Torrance manufacturing plant for mill machinery and pipe production. He has introduced a number of innovations into the pipe industry and "will be a most welcome asset to Cal Metal," said Revell.
