

Winners in Sports May Be Losers in Romance

By Count Marco

No woman should ever participate in an outdoor sporting event. First of all, you don't have the equipment for it, nor the drive behind the equipment you have.

Women on the field of sport too often look like overfed cows jumping and running hysterically in confusion from an overturned beehive. They just don't look like women. Nor do they act like women.

You should never attempt to compete in sports with your very own man, or one you are working on for your very own.

You can't possibly look feminine or helpless in those things you pass off as sporting costumes. Some of those things you wear look like well-used leftovers from a busy truck-drivers' convention.

On the golf course you are truly painful to see. You clomp along in your awkward, low-heeled shoes, totting a heavy, uglier bag behind you. At a distance it is difficult for men in the game to tell one bag from the other.

When you play tennis your costumes are equally regrettable. Either the shorts are far too overloaded or else they flap uninvitingly around the thighs. Add to this the unfeminine, fantastic gyrations of the jumping and running you do and you can see why female tennis players wind up on the sidelines of life.

What man wants all that energy around? What he wants and needs is peace and quiet, not a nervous tic with a racket in her hand.

Look lovelier and stay less heated. Keep away from the outdoor playing field of men. There's certainly nothing sexy about muscles on a woman, and piano legs belong on a grand piano or a football player.

To keep or attract a man, it is the wise woman who always looks cool and neat; who can sit on the sidelines admiring the love of her life, cheering him on, but who never, never competes.

She's the kind who will never find competition in her love life, either.

Teenagers Ready For 'Bowl Battle'

Opportunity only knocks once—and Torrance teenagers Norman Britton, Mary Jane Collins, and Nancy Baker are out to make certain the door is open when they appear in the Hollywood Bowl Battle of the Bands finals June 28.

Members of the South High School jazz dance ensemble, the group will appear in several production numbers presenting recent winners of preliminaries throughout the nation. More than 1,000 of the southland's most talented young music makers competed in the six months of contests leading to Bowl finals.

MISS BAKER, South High commissioner of public relations and a member of the scholarship society and girl's service club, hopes to continue her education and enter the foreign service. She is 16 and lives at 5338 Carol Drive.

Coed Mary Jane Collins, secretary of the South High junior class, finds time for both student body and cultural activities. She is a member of several school clubs and appears in all of the jazz ensemble's productions. She resides at 23508 Susana Ave., is 16, and hopes to become a secretary.

BRITTON, an alto sax man with the Continental Jazz Quintet, lives at 2627 W. 226th St. He recently won recognition along with other members of the quintet for appearances at the El Camino Jazz Festival. He is president of the South High jazz club, a member of the American Jazz Society. The 17-year-old junior will study music and business administration in college.

Tickets for the Battle of the Bands may be obtained from Britton, or from the Los Angeles Dept. of Parks and Recreation. The program is sponsored by county parks and is open to all young music-makers.
