

Mothers Intrigued By New 'Wig' Fashions

A chance to "let their hair down" was given four mothers, who modeled hair styles and fashion wigs, when the South Bay Mothers of Twins Club held its regular monthly meeting on Monday, July 15, at Chin's Chinese Gardens, Lomita.

After a delectable Cantonese dinner, members were introduced to Mr. Stewart Brown, owner of La Contessa Couiffuers, located in the Peninsula Center, Palos Verdes. Brown presented original comb-out styles, designed for the individual facial contours of the mothers. Modeling were Mmes. John Adams, Cleve Kimmel, Bob Jackson, and William Bradley. The wig styling was next, with a demonstration on how to choose, properly wear, and take care of the wigs. Questions were then asked by the club members on present trends of hair styling and care.

Following the show, Mrs. Andy Meier, newly-elected president, conducted her first business meeting of the new term. Future activities this summer will be the club's participation in the Charity Carnival at the South Bay Shopping Center held from July 26 through 28. The Twins Club will work the "Tic-Tac-Toe" booth. "All proceeds from the game will be put into the club's philanthropic fund," stated Mrs. Tom Prevo, chairman of ways and means.

Fun will be in store for the mothers and their husbands at the summer swim party at Adli Swim Park, Aug. 17. Couples will enjoy a gala evening of swimming in one of three pools, ping-pong games, and dancing.

Any mother of twins, living in the South Bay area, is invited to contact Mrs. Ed Edwards of Redondo Beach for membership information.
