

Heart Panel Slated Saturday Afternoon

Questions about heart health will be answered Saturday at a Senior Citizens heart health program, scheduled from noon to 3:30 p.m. at Sportsmen's Park, Western Avenue and Century Boulevard.

No charge for admission will be made, reports the Los Angeles County Heart Assn., sponsors of the panel discussion.

Titled "Heart Trouble Today—And What You Can Do About It," the affair is sponsored by the Heart Assn.'s Southwestern Region Council in cooperation with the Los Angeles County Department of Senior Citizens' Affairs, Senior Citizens' Assn. of Los Angeles County and the County Department of Parks and Recreation.

"QUESTIONS about stroke, heart attack, high blood pressure and other such disorders are in the minds of most Senior Citizens," explained Dr. Robert F. Neilsen, medical chairman for the Heart Assn.'s Southwestern Region.

"The Heart Assn. exists solely to help reduce death and disability from cardiovascular disorders. Its function is public service through bringing to the people the new knowledge of medical advancement and heart health techniques that will lead to final prevention and control of all diseases of the heart and blood vessels," he declared.

With Dr. Neilsen as moderator, the panelists will be: Dr. Ronald T. Piccirillo, internist-cardiologist; Sister Mary Xavier, dietitian; Dr. Richard J. Lescoe, thoracic surgeon; Dr. Walter J. Nower, psychiatrist.

PANELISTS will discuss the medical, social, nutritional, emotional and industrial problems of the cardiac. Each specialist will answer questions from the audience following his talk.

On exhibit, for a closeup view, will be some of the electronic "miracle machines" used in diagnosis and treatment of cardiac disorders. These will include the heart-lung machine, electro-cardiograph, pacemaker, heart rate alarm and other related devices.

Special time for viewing the exhibits begins at noon, followed by community singing and Senior Citizens' entertainment. Panel program begins at 1 p.m., Dr. Neilsen said.
