... Ann Landers

(Continued from Page 25) guy will learn the glad tidings one of these days all by himself. When the egg does hit the fan you'll be glad you had nothing to do with it. This is not the sort of news you send to a man overseas, via a cousin or anyone else.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 22-year-old daughter plans to be engaged when her fiance graduates from college in June. Something has been bothering her and she has asked me to help her decide.

The girl is attractive and has the world's sunniest disposition. She has a host of friends and no one thinks of her as handicapped. Nevertheless she had polio when she was a youngster and the disease left her with a slight limp and a shriveled arm.

Her fiance wants to buy her an engagement ring. She doesn't know whether or not she wants a ring because it is her left arm that is crippled. Although she has never been self-conscious she would not like to call attention to her deformity by wearing an engagement ring. May we have your opinion.—Q. T.

Dear Q. T.: Your daughter should not hesitate to accept an engagement ring. If she would be more comfortable about wearing the ring on her right hand by all means suggest that she do so.

Ann Landers' frank and informative new book "Teen-agers and You" $2.95 is now available at your book store. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
