Employment Office Has Reserve Jobs Available

Jobs paying from $5,255 to $9,980 a year are open as Army Reserve Technicians for qualified applicants, Murray Love, manager of the Torrance office of the California State Employment office, has announced. Love said preference in hiring will be given by the Army to members of the Reserve or to job applicants who are willing and eligible to join.

A mandatory qualification is that an applicant must have obtained the required experience while serving in the military or as a civilian employed by the military. The Torrance State Employment office has been requested by the Army to assist with local recruitment of workers. Love said the offered employment is in supply, personnel, training, maintenance and general administration. Further information about specific jobs may be obtained from the Torrance office at 1220 Engracia Ave.

Social Security Numbers Must Be On Tax Returns

Social security numbers are required on all income tax returns. R. A. Riddell, district director of the Internal Revenue Service, reminded taxpayers this week. Riddell said the most common error on returns is the failure to include both the husband and wife's social security number on joint returns. "We'd like to ask taxpayers to check this entry carefully," said Riddell.
