El Camino Will Offer Fall Drafting Courses

A two-year vocational drafting course designed to prepare students for drafting positions in industry is one of several new vocational training programs to be offered by El Camino College during the regular fall semester beginning September 14, according to Dr. Lyle Tussing, director of instruction. Applications for enrollment in the drafting class are being accepted now at the college campus, Crenshaw and Redondo Beach boulevards. Only 30 students will be enrolled for the intensive training program.

Students in the drafting course will attend drafting classes from 8 to 11 a. m. five days a week. Other classes will complete the full schedule leading to the Associate of Arts degree. Those successfully completing the work will be qualified for drafting positions in industrial plants, contracting firms, and for various civil service positions.

Help in placing students in jobs with local companies will be offered by the college. The course will be valuable also to persons now employed who are interested in advancing from their present positions, according to Francis L. Goff, drafting instructor in charge of the program.

General drafting, machine designing, sheet metal, electrical, structural, and building trades drafting are among the subjects to be covered in the course. Particular skills to be learned include lettering, drafting techniques and practices, various types of mechanical drawing and illustration, and descriptive geometry. Specialization will be permitted during the second year.

Students will have an opportunity to study drafting manuals and to become familiar with actual drafting practices followed by various industries in the local area. They will also be acquainted with various manufacturing materials and processes, including plastics.

The course will be conducted under the direction of an advisory committee made up of drafting supervisors and leaders from local industry.

In addition to actual drafting classes, other essential related courses offered at the college will be included in the program of study.

Applicants for enrollment will be chosen on the basis of background qualifications, according to Instructor Goff, who urges early application. High school

One test furnishes information relative to the vocational interests of the entering student; the other indicates academic aptitude.

Tests will be given at the college in Room 100 on the following dates: August 15 at 2 p. m., August 24 at 2 p. m. Those expecting to enroll at the college are free to choose the date most convenient for them.

Jalopies Race Again Friday At Carrell's

Jalopies clatter and bang around Carrell Speedway's B-shaped dirt quarter-mile track again Friday night (July 21) in their last meeting before the gigantic 250-lap July "Gold Cup" Sweepstakes July 28 over the half-mile track.

The galloping wrecks charged through a spectacular program last week under the expert flagging of Howard Shirley, veteran jalopy driver who made his debut as starter for the association. A field of 50 rambling wrecks will be selected for the 125-mile marathon. The lads will be brushing up on their tactics and maneuvering so that when the time trials for the "big Run" take place they will be in the field.

Time trials for Friday night's show open at 6:30 p.m. with the first of eight events rolling at 8:30 p.m. All seats go at the same price, $1.25 with kids under 12 admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

Next Wednesday night the powerful AMA motorcycles thunder around the half-mile track on the same time and price schedule.
