Lois Darlene Kannasto and J. Hayden Jones Married

Large Chrysanthemums in the orchid shades, decorated the altar of the Lomita Presbyterian Church for the candle-light nuptial ceremony of Miss Lois Darlene Kannasto and L. Hayden Jones, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Eldon Durham, pastor, read the double ring service before 300 guests.

The attractive bride set a precedent when she appeared wearing the wedding gown of Mrs. Vincent Bauchiero, at whose marriage the bride acted as flower girl fifteen years ago. The gown of traditional white satin is fashioned with a tight bodice and full draped skirt, revealing an under skirt of net ruffles. The twelve foot illusion veil fell from a crown shaped headress. She carried a cascading bouquet of feather white carnations, centered with a detachable orchid.

Mrs. Joan Reagan served her sister as Matron of Honor. Bridesmaids, Louise Hartman, Dorothy Ruhta and Hazel Fay wore identical frocks of turquoise. Janice Bell was flower girl.

George Fisk served as best man. Ushers were Robert Reagan, brother-in-law of the bride; Henry Hartmann, David Bittner and Cleason Jones, brother of groom. Albert E. Kannasto presented his daughter in marriage. A reception in the church hall, followed the ceremony.

Both the bride and groom attended local schools. The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Jones of Harbor City, served with the Marine Corp during World War II. Following a brief honeymoon, the newlyweds will make their home in Lomita.
