

Bakery Featuring Unique Hunza Bread Opens Here

The Hunza House, a new type modern bakery featuring the highly nutritious Hunza bread opened this week at 1619 Cravens Ave. in Torrance. Initial plant of this high protein bread, the Torrance shop is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Albin K. Peterson, 202 Knob Hill Ave., Redondo Beach.

The Hunza bread is made from freshly ground hard wheat, fresh whole milk, honey and yeast, retaining all the natural vitamins and minerals of the wheat berry.

The unusual name 'Hunza' has been derived from a large tribe living in the Himalaya Mts. bordering on India and Tibet. These people are said to be the healthiest on the globe; their diet consisting mainly of whole grains fruits and vegetables, dairy products and a small amount of fresh or dried meat. It is called the 'Country of Just Enough' and its people are said to be of a high intelligence and grow to a ripe and healthy old age.

The formula and method for producing this bread has been obtained from Mr. and Mrs. Knut Hesstvedt of Escondido, California. Hesstvedt, an economist and sociologist formerly from the University of Oslo, Norway, was recently decorated with the Order of St. George by the British government in recognition of his work in the underground during World War II.

In their travels following the war to regain their health lost during the trying existence during the war years, Mr. and Mrs. Hesstvedt discovered the diet of the 'Healthy Hunzas.' Following a diet somewhat similar, they regained their health, and decided that what was good for them would be good for others.

Coming to this country they started baking bread in Escondido, Calif., and were soon unable to supply the demand. It has gained widespread demand and is endorsed by The American Academy of Applied Nutrition of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson have been local residents for many years and have been interested in natural foods for about thirty his home, it was said.

First trying to stop the bleeding himself, but unsuccessful, Gossett was rushed to the Harbor General Hospital by a brother from Los Angeles, where his bleeding was stopped.

Gossett's wife reported that he had been drinking Friday night when he went to one of the gambling houses in Gardena where he lost $65. He then went to the home of a sister in Los Angeles where he spent the remainder of the night and all day Saturday. Returning home about 11 p.m. Saturday, Gossett sat at and brooded in the kitchen until about 3 a. m., feeling guilty about his previous night's losses.

He then got a kitchen knife, sharpened it and cut his left wrist. Not proving effective, he went to the bathroom, got a razor blade and slashed his left wrist with it.
