Frederick Barnes at Religious Science Dedication Service

Sunday is organ dedication day at the Church of Religious Science in Redondo Beach. Augmenting the regular service this week will be Frederick M. Barnes in a short organ recital during the service.

Barnes is both an organist and a composer. His musical experience goes back to when he was five years old, singing in a boy's choir. It was then he began his study of the organ.

While a music major at the University of Southern California, Barnes studied organ, piano and voice and held the position of organist and choir master at the Presbyterian Church in Santa Monica.

Some of his further studies include two intensive years at the Westminster Choir College and seven years of study with the world renowned French organ virtuoso, Eduard Neiss-Derger of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. He has been organist in some of the larger churches in Los Angeles, including the First Congregational, and is an artist in his own right on radio and television.

Barnes' program Sunday will include one of his own compositions, "Fantasy for Flutes."

The subject of Rev. Barnum's sermon will be "Prayer and Demonstration." The Metateons, (the teen-age church), the Church School and the tiny pre-school children, all meet concurrently with the church services at 11 a.m. in the Masonic Temple.
