KNOW YOUR REALTOR

From the rugged Land of the Midnight Sun, a hardy Viking has found his way to Torrance; Hans P. Norby was born in Oslo, capital and largest city of Norway, standing at the head of Oslofjord. Hans settled in Minneapolis with his parents and finished his formal education in this city where so many Scandinavians have migrated. Before he had finished high school, he was working as a millwright and mechanic in a sash and door manufacturing business. Hans augmented his on-the-job education with architectural and drafting training at night school until he was able to qualify for a position as estimating engineer and office manager for a large sash and door company—a position he held for 29 years, until he moved his family to California in 1946.

The Norbys lived in Santa Monica for a while after coming to California, but through the efforts of friends who boosted Torrance's business potential, pulled up the Santa Monica stakes and moved to Torrance where he opened his present office at 1715 Arlington Avenue.

Of course, living for so many years on the banks of Lake Minnetonka with three sons, the Norbys skated, swam and stalked wild game for fun. But now, with the boys grown and the real estate business taking a good share of his time—to say nothing of the

Aircraft Plant Distributes Bonus Checks at Party

Bonus checks totaling $18,000 were distributed to the 250 personnel of Longren Aircraft Co., and 43 employees received service awards at the aircraft firm's regular quarterly Family Bonus Party, at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Memorial Hall in Gardena, Saturday night. More than 500 Longren employees and family members attended, it was reported.

Longren Aircraft Co. has achieved widespread national recognition for its industrial relations program and employees profit sharing plan whereby 24% of the aircraft firm's net profits are distributed quarterly. Under the Plan, employees receive approximately 12% of their gross annual earnings in the form of quarterly bonuses in addition to their wages, it was stated.

Before distributing the bonus checks, Managing Director Hampden Wentworth told the Longren employees that better employee cooperation and spirit is the key to increased productivity. He disclosed that over the last few years Longren Aircraft employees have increased productivity 95.5% and reduced labor turnover by 30%. Mr. Wentworth urged redoubling of efforts to achieve a 20% boost in productivity to maintain Longren leadership.

In addition to bonus checks, service pins presented to Longren "Associates" included ten-year awards: A. K. Peterson, Special Design Projects; Max Pier, Production Manager; Virgil Sackman, Assistant Production Manager; Wendell Walker, Assistant Industrial Relations Manager. The ten-year service pin was presented to Managing Director Wentworth by Max Pier, Production Manager. Other service awards included 11 five-year pins and 27 two-year pins, it was announced.

The ceremonies were preceded by a pot-luck dinner and concluded with dancing. Entertainment was provided by the Betty Thomas Music Studio musical and dance groups.

Promotions Awarded to THS Cadets

Commissions and warrants were awarded yesterday morning to the California Cadet Corps of Torrance high school, it was reported.
