were in the water, clothes and all. Unorthodox Methods Using unorthodox but effective Dennis pulled and pushed the 85-Wentzel Smith, 11, and Jon Sincok, 12, took hold from the land. About this time it occurred to Mike that he really did not know how to swim. James McMillen, scoutmaster, had watched the whole proceeding from the hill, having followed the boys to the river at a distance. McMillen was speechless. Everything happened so fast that he could not even shout a warning or stop the boys. He would have thought twice himself before having dashed to the rescue.

Fish

Albert Wicker, 11, when he saw that the situation was under control, sped down the river to retrieve the lost fishing pole. The fish was still on the hook but Albert proved himself a poor fisherman. The first thing the near-drowned fisherman did was to direct his fury against Albert for having lost his fish.

the letter of repudiation of the complaint, and that the members of the association demanded and secured retraction of the repudiation. It was reliably reported that the investigation had been ordered by department inspectors. The reported inquiry may have some bearing on several propositions due to be made in the local postoffice, including the appointment of new supervisors, station superintendents and clerks in charge.

Resolution

Bearing upon the local situation is a resolution adopted recently by various letter carrier associations asking that the office of postmaster be made a professional rather than a political appointment. The resolution has been channeled to the proper federal authorities for study and nationwide adoption. ### Credit Plan Highlights Expansion

In line with the latest trends in retail merchandising methods, the Brown and Stewart Texaco Station, 2326 Torrance Blvd., representatives here of the B. F. Goodrich Company has just put Goodrich Co. credit sales plan in operation. Announcement of this new service was made by Ben Stewart, co-owner.

Aubrey Brown, co-owner, stated that this is a big step forward in the further development of "our retail merchandising program. With this new plan, it is now possible for our customers to purchase merchandise for cash, on "lay-away," on a regular 30-day charge account, or on budget terms," Brown said.

The official opening of this credit plan and a grand opening will be held today, Friday, and Saturday, while a tire sale will continue through September as of this week.

In addition to offering quality merchandise at reasonable prices, the station can now offer credit as an additional service, Stewart said. Prices will be the same regardless of how a purchase is paid for, though there will be a small carrying charge when goods are purchased on budget terms.

Customers will be able to purchase items for as little as $1 down and on terms as long as 12 months.

Goodyear Store To Locate Here

Construction of a Goodyear retail store to be located on Engracia and Torrance Blvd. in back of Roth's market will begin in about a month, according to spokesmen for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

Columbia Steel Appoints Carrera

Julius M. Carrera was appointed works metallurgist of the Torrance plant of Columbia Geneva Steel replacing Gilbert Wegner, who has been promoted to the position of service metallurgist of the district sales office of the company in Los Angeles.
