Find Dog, Victim Lives In Anxiety

Three days of dreadful anxiety ended for Paul Schotanus of 809 Teri avenue Tuesday after he was able to locate a dog which had bitten him Saturday evening.

Had he not been able to locate the dog within ten days from the time of the bite, Schotanus would have had to undergo a series of painful Pasteur treatments in order to guard against the possibility of rabies which is always fatal.

Schotanus was bitten while passing between two parked cars on a local parking lot. The cocker spaniel which was in the car at the time was traced to the Naval Supply depot.

Fortunately the dog had just recently been vaccinated against rabies, so that Schotanus is out of danger.

Since anti-rabies vaccinations for dogs are not compulsory in Torrance, residents caught in similar situation as Schotanus must live in dreadful anxiety until the animal which bit them can be located. If this can't be done, they must undergo Pasteur treatments which are extremely painful.

Street Lights Planned For Weston Hills

Street lights for the Weston Hills tracts as well as for the Highway 101 and Crenshaw boulevard intersection have been ordered. They will be installed in the near future, according to City Manager George Stevens.

About 25 lights will be required to provide illumination for intersections and the middle of long blocks, Stevens said. The lights have been ordered from the Souther California Edison Company.
