Communism In Korea Portrayed By Film

A dramatic 45-minute film portraying Communism versus Christianity in Korea will be shown next Sunday evening, November 28, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, 1715 Martina avenue, it was announced by Rev. Douglas Jeffrey, assistant pastor.

The film, "Dead Men on Furlough," is the sixth motion picture produced by World Vision, Inc., of Portland, Oregon, a non-profit organization which channels funds to established missionary agencies in the Orient.

The story is told by Bob Pierce to present the truth to America. Pierce portrays himself in this factual dramatic story, a story which is unique because of a heroic Korean. When the hospital in the village where Pastor Chaj had his ministry was taken over by the Reds, patients were driven out. Pastor Chaj was imprisoned with his wife and baby held as hostages. Then he gave a confession which will thrill the hearts of the audience in his stand against Communism.

"Dead Men on Furlough" has been adapted for screenplay by John O'Dea, directed by Dick Ross and produced by Great Commission Films. It features a number of Hollywood's most competent actors and actresses, including Key Luke, Richard Loo, Jean Wong, Don Harvey, Victor Sen Yung and scores of all ages from a Korean colony in Los Angeles.

As another "first" in the field of religious films, it will be scheduled for a World Premiere
