BILLY GRAHAM FILM PLAYS HERE TONIGHT

Joan Winmill will be starred in the premiere of Billy Graham's newest full color feature film, "Souls in Conflict," to be shown in the First Baptist church, 1715 Martina, (across from Torrance high school) at 7:30 p.m. Thursday night, January 6, it was announced.

JOAN WINMILL ... to star in "Souls in Conflict"

Any playwright will tell you, it's the unique switch to the plot that makes the story. For Joan Winmill, a somewhat successful young London actress with as yet unrealized ambitions, the switch comes suddenly and from a most unexpected source.

Scarcely out of her teens, Joan had realized the dream of every young girl—a promising debut and bright prospects for mounting success in the theatre. Plays by and with greats of the theatrical world—Frederick Lonsdale, George Bernard Shaw, Bela Lugoso—had brought outstanding personal press notices. Stardom beckoned, but somehow uncertainty tempered the joy.

In Search Eventually, blazing ambition took its toll. Joan suffered a series of nervous breakdowns. It was while in search of the answers to many perplexing questions that Joan one night found herself in Harringay Arena listening to the evangelist, Billy Graham.
