Search is exciting!

Scientists are constantly probing deeper into the secrets of nature —bringing new and better things to you

AS THE PROSPECTOR thrills to the search for treasure, so does the scientist as he searches out the secrets of the earth, air, and water.
THE TREASURE that the scientist seeks is better understanding of nature, and ways to bring better living for all of us. To find them, he is constantly probing, taking the elements apart, putting them back together in different ways—always looking for something new and promising.
 How important is such research? Today, more than one-third of the work of the people of Union Carbide is in providing products and processes that did not exist in commercial quantities 15 years ago. Each new product, each new process, was born of intensive search.

for life-saving medicines and many other uses... a wide range of carbon and graphite products... oxygen for the sickroom and industry... a variety of wonderful new plastics... alloying metals for stainless and other fine steels.

SEARCH... RESEARCH? To the scientists of Union Carbide, search and research are the same—an exciting key to a brighter future for all.
FREE: Would you like to learn more about the many useful things research has helped bring to you? Ask for "Products and Processes" booklet M.
