SHOOTING...

three grown sons allegedly told the Hart group to get away.

Return

Shortly after, the Hart car and another car containing five juveniles reappeared. Stoner was there to meet them with the shot gun when the shooting took place.

According to the Hart group, only one of their members had left the car and was nowhere near Stoner when the shooting occurred.

The only weapon police picked up from the juveniles was an iron bar.

Beatings

According to police, Hart was involved in a gang beating of two boys in Torrance earlier during the week-end.

A juvenile court petition, The Monday incident was charging him with delinquency, parently the outgrowth of juvenile rivalry, according to police.

him but that he was welcome to come along and prospect with them and then return to civilization again Monday.

Though this was a somewhat round-about way of getting home, Sischo felt it was the wisest thing to do under the circumstances, so he went along.

In the meantime, relatives and friends alarmed San Bernardino sheriffs when Sischo failed to return Sunday. But Sischo turned up again Monday night in Torrance under his own power — and all it took to find him was a geiger-counter!
