Photo Service, and the Torrance Press, respectively, are:

Fourth place, A. Van Kraingen Jr., 25, of 2410 Arlington avenue, for his photo "Studying the Daily Paper," showing a man at the plaza laboring through the day's news.

Fifth—Dennis Bullock, 13, of 1323 Teri avenue, for his photo, "Sweethearts," a shot of two chimpanzees making like sweethearts at a picnic.

Sixth—Robert C. Jensen, of 1203 Teri avenue, who submitted an amusing shot of two children and their preoccupation with a new and fascinating acquaintance, a chimpanzee.

First, second, and third place winners are asked to be at the Torrance Press, Saturday, July 30, at 10 a.m. for a group picture. They will receive their prizes at that time.

Runners-up may pick up their prizes any time at the Torrance Press.

All pictures entered in the contest may now be picked up at the Torrance Press, 1406 Cravens Ave.

Rabies . . .

He thought enforcement of the leash law would be sufficient until the matter is decided by the people on the ballot.

Councilman Blount, who informed the audience that he has three children and no dogs, said he does not believe in "penalizing honest people" and placing "too much power in the pound master."

"Let's do something about the leash law and we will have no more problem."

Capacity Crowd

The Council Chamber was filled to capacity with "standing room only." An estimated 140 people were there with the greatest majority opposed to the rabies law—a complete reversal of the situation. At the hearing two weeks ago.

Despite the fact that the Council did not officially intend to reopen its hearing, the presence of this large audience caused the councilmen to permit renewed discussion from the floor, theoretically allowing each individual three minutes to speak.

Six individuals came forward to speak in favor of the law; nine spoke against it.

In Favor

Comments made by those favoring the law were as follows: Dr. Kurt Shery, 1104 Sartori: "Tonight I appear as a representative of the medical staff of the Torrance Memorial Hospital who have voted unanimously in favor of the ordinance. On their behalf I say: don't jeopardize the welfare and health of our people on the basis of unfounded, unproven, emotional, and wholly untenable charges and accusations."

Charles S. Redding of 4011 W. 175th st., Torrance, appeared to refute charges made in pamphlets circulated by the opposition during the last two weeks. The value and effectiveness of inoculations, he said, was proven as far back as 1865 as a way of preventing disease.

"I don't see how we can think ourselves back before that time when people did not believe in it."

"Mice and rats carry rabies, of course. But the number of those incidents when they have given rabies to humans is almost unheard-of," Redding concluded.

George Schneider of 636 Calle Miramar noted that leash law enforcement is lax and that "since we are unable to protect ourselves adequately against the menace of dogs we should protect our children against contracting rabies."

Mrs. Herma Tillim of 16940 Osage said she was "almost disgusted" with the types of arguments she has heard and read in the past two weeks opposing the rabies law. Referring to these arguments and charges, she said she is proud of America and does not believe that all public officials and sources of adequate information are "bought up" as frequently implied by opponents.

Claims that vaccinations would cost $15 she called "propaganda," stating that she could not find any veterinarian who charged that much.

"I think you'll all take the scientist's word for it rather than the word of people who have dreamed up these things," she concluded.

Mrs. Ruth Vaughan of 1724 Juniper ave. produced a letter from the Department of Public Health, County of San Diego, whose rabies ordinance had come under attack by the opposition.

The letter stated figures regarding the city of San Diego. As a result of pressure, it stated, the 1925 rabies ordinance was revoked in 1928 and animal rabies increased by 200 cases, taking two years to bring under control.

There were two human deaths in 1934. Since the law was made effective again in 1950 there have been no cases of rabies in the city.

Shots cost $1 and of 22,000 dogs vaccinated, none has suffered any permanent ill effects.

Joseph H. Frost of 628 Calle Miramar, formerly with the Air Force, pleaded for a rabies law, stating that he has seen 43 Chinese die a horrible rabies death and has also witnessed the extremely painful effects of the Pasteur treatment.

Against Law

Opponents had this to say: "You won't find a doctor to oppose this law because that's how they make their bread and butter," stated Vernon C. Frith, 22228 Warmside ave.

He read from a pamphlet quoting a Dr. William Howard Hay, M.D. of New York, who argued against the value of inoculations.

Frith's reading was interrupted by Dr. Shery who exclaimed, "Are any of these men still alive? Most of them are dead!"

Frith also claimed that many servicemen during the war died right here at home in the various hospitals because they were subjected to inoculations "supposed to make them immune."

Richard T. Hill, of the Citizens Fact Finding Committee, Highland park, claimed that the AF of L carpenters union did not back the rabies law.

He made this comment after learning that the Greater CIO Council of Los Angeles endorsed the law and a telegram to that effect was sent to Torrance councilmen Tuesday afternoon.

"This is America, not Russia," Hill exclaimed, in commenting on the compulsory nature of the proposed law, concluding, "such a law is discriminatory against responsible, registered dog owners."

Eileen Goetz of 5029 Milne dr. submitted petitions against the law containing 220 signatures.

Four more petitions containing 32 names each, plus one with 20 names were submitted by Mrs. Charles Turner, 2024 Martina.

Rita Delmar of Humane Affiliates and working with Mrs. Goetz of the Torrance Citizens Committee, argued that if rabies were so serious a matter 175 California legislators would not have killed a similar bill.

Estelle Taylor of the Los Angeles Animal Regulation Commission called rabies three times as rare as leprosy and said the present outbreak is not an epidemic.

The answer to the problem, she said, was the leash law. F. W. Sparrow, 708 Amapola, president of Torrance Citizens Committee, thought that licensed owners should not be penalized; charged that this was a fabricated epidemic fostered by the newspapers; and thought a leash law would do the trick.
