

Authority To Speak On Delinquency

"We can reduce juvenile delinquency" will be the subject of a workshop by Ben Solomon, noted New York Youth Magazine editor and an authority on juvenile delinquency and youth problems.

The workshop will be held at the civic auditorium, 1349 El Prado, March 8 at 8 p.m., and is being sponsored by the Torrance Coordinating Council and the Torrance Recreation Department.

Solomon has been working the past year with the New York Police Department for the prevention of juvenile delinquency, and delinquent problems.

The workshop will be of particular interest to teachers, police officers, juvenile authorities, as well as parents, youth leaders, and recreation workers.

Great Dane Falls into Deep Hole

The doggonest thing happened to a great Dane Saturday—it fell into an 8-foot hole on property near 240th street and Helman avenue.

The dog was rescued by Mr. and Mrs. David Fay of 2011 West 242nd street, firemen, and humane society workers.

The animal, a female, was taken to the Hawthorne Humane society where the owner may pick it up. It is fawn-colored and has a black mask.
