

Elmer Prout, preacher for the Church of Christ, 1217 Cravens ave., has selected Acts 17:1-8 as the text for the morning sermon on Sunday, March 4, at 10:45 a.m. The title will be "On Turning A City Upside Down." The words of Jesus in John 9:7 will be the basis of the evening sermon at 7 p.m. The admonition of the Lord in these verses is "Work for the Night Is Coming."

Plans are being made for the spring gospel meeting at the church from April 1 through 11. Services will be held each evening during that time at 7:30 p.m.

At the request of the church one of the local ministers, Elmer Prout, will do the preaching in this series of meetings. These sermons will be designed to present fundamentals necessary for the restoration of New Testament Christianity, states Prout.

The public is welcome at these services, Prout said.

Tooth Fairy Needs Vacation After Visiting Parker Family

By Noralee Benedict

The Tooth Fairy, who leaves small gifts of money under the pillow in return for each newly lost tooth, is left in a state bordering on nervous exhaustion after having to work overtime at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Parker of 1138 West 209th street. In preparation for Dental Health Week, March 5 through 11, Mrs. Parker took Jeannie, 10; Judy, 8; Starr, 4; Danny, 12; Buddy, 7; Lonnie 5; and Freddy, 2; to visit their dentist, Dr. Stanley D. Challis.

The children trooped in merrily and proceeded to put Dr. Challis through a question-and-answer period that covered everything from the purpose of each article of dental equipment to the detailed benefits of the new Fluoride treatment.

Starr was particularly interested in the workings of the dental chair. After peering through the door at her brother who was reclining in the huge metal and leather seat, she returned to her mother and asked, "Will I sit in a thing like Danny's in?"

On being told that she would, she gave it another thorough going over, and said "Just tell me, is it hot or cold?" After being reassured that the chair was not going to play any temperature tricks on her, she decided to stay.

Danny, who was to have a tooth pulled, and is not one to beat about the bush on important matters, entered the office, took his seat in the chair, and told Dr. Challis firmly, "I don't want this to hurt."

Dr. Challis solemnly told him that he would try to heed his wishes in the matter. After the tooth was pulled, Danny said that Dr. Challis had kept his part of the gentlemen's agreement perfectly.

One by one, the procession continued. Even Freddy, the baby of the family who had just gone along for the ride, was so enchanted with the game, that he insisted on being treated for what he termed "cabbies."

At the end of the session, Dr. Challis sent them home proudly clutching gifts of new tooth brushes.

Chairman
Dr. Challis is Torrance com-

community chairman for Dental Health Week. He pointed out that the Parker family illustrates all the points advocated by the dental health drive.

The Parker children over four years old are taking Fluoride treatments, they are all firm believers in regular tooth brushing, a nourishing diet low in refined carbohydrates, and regular visits to the dentist, he pointed out.

"We believe that regular dental check-ups not only save us money in the long run," said Mrs. Parker, "but are also one of the best investments we can make for our children's health."

"Dr. Challis told us that the average 16-year-old has seven decayed teeth, and, by the time he is 21, five of them are lost," she continued. "We don't intend to let this happen in our family."
