E. F. HAWKESWORTH
... attends USC

USC Course Attended By Hawkesworth

E. F. Hawkesworth, southwest division manager for the Southern California Gas company in Inglewood, was awarded a certificate of graduation from the Institute of Business Economics conducted at the University of Southern California.

Hawkesworth, who has been on leave from his gas company post, received his certificate at graduation ceremonies on the university's campus following a six week's summer course for business and industry executives. Actual presentation of the certificates was made by President Fred D. Fagg of USC.

Held each year in a six-week term, the Institute of Business Economics is designed as a management development program to fit the needs of business leaders. Its objective is to set forth the principles of a free enterprise system.

Gas company executives have been participating in this program for three years. During each summer institute session, those attending are relieved of all company responsibilities, spending full time at the university.

Attending the course from the Gas company with Hawkesworth was L. R. Pickup, division manager for the company in its San Fernando Valley division headquarters in Van Nuys.

Editor,
Torrance Press:

On behalf of the American Cancer Society's Los Angeles County Branch, we want you to know how very much we appreciate the fine support you have given our public information program during the past year.

The basic aim of the American Cancer Society is to bring to every person sufficient knowledge about cancer so that he will not lose his life needlessly.

By presenting life-saving cancer facts to your readers throughout the year, you have worked closely with the Society in trying to achieve this aim.

Mrs. Toni Redfield, Public Information Director of our County Branch, joins us in thanking you for your splendid cooperation. As we start our new year, we look forward to your continued support which is so vital in the conquest of mankind's cruellest enemy, cancer.
