The bride is the daughter of Martin G. Jack of 628 Esplanade ave., Redondo Beach. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Tyson, Jr., of 751 West 138th street, Hawthorne.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a gown of heavy white antique satin, overlaid with lace, extending into a six foot train. The gown had an old-fashioned high neckline and wrist length sleeves. A princess style tight fitting bodice adorned with little pearl rosettes, button down the back which closed to the waistline. The skirt was extremely bouffant.

Her veil was waist length cascading from a crown consisting of lilies of the valley. She carried a bouquet of lovely roses.

Reverend John Taylor officiated the double ring ceremony and plain gold wedding bands were exchanged.

The maid-of-honor, Elizabeth Jack, sister of the bride, wore a gown designed of pale green net worn over pale green satin and a tiara adorning her head. Her cascade was made of pale pink carnations.

Ronald Wilbanks served as best man. Phillip Altieri and Del Seraphine were ushers.

Mrs. Tyson's street length gown was made of taffeta covered with blue nylon lace and she wore a corsage made with rosebuds and gardenias.

The reception was held in the parish hall, with Mary Ellen and her father, Martin Jack and Aunt Margaret Jack leading the reception line.

A beautiful four tier cake, decorated with pink roses and large pink bells and punch was served.

The bride and bridegroom plan to honeymoon for one week at Yosemite National park and will reside permanently at Santa Barbara.

Margaret Jack graduated from Leuzinger high school in 1955 and has attended El Camino college.

The groom graduated from Leuzinger high school in 1949 and graduated from El Camino.

Gloria Nichols Betrothed In Afternoon Ceremony

Approximately 250 guests attended the wedding reception in the church social hall—which followed the betrothal of Gloria Elaine Nichols to Jim D. Bailey.

The wedding was performed at St. Nicholas Orthodox church in an afternoon ceremony, officiated by Reverend James Meena.

Looking lovely in an original design of silk organza, the bride was given away by her father, Abraham M. Nichols.

Her gown was a torso style over egg-shell taffeta, the bodice was covered with lace and had a portrait neckline. She selected a coronet of lace for her crown, elbow length of sheer French tulle.

She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and white orchids in a colonial shape.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Charles Reinhart, sister of the bride, chose a gown of apricot silk organza with eyelets, ankle length, with a matching halo of flowers. Her colonial bouquet was made of Talisman roses.

Jeanine Stiles, Mary Ellen Hodge, Mrs. Roger Poverny and Gail Rattray were the bridesmaids.

Two of the bridesmaids wore yellow and two wore lime green marquisette over taffeta, they also wore velvet head bands and flowers.

They carried colonial bouquets of cream carnations centered with yellow roses.

Flower girls, Nancy Welty and Renee Tanous, both wore pink and white floor length frocks.

James Norcop was best man and William Goffman, Roger Poverny, Stanley Johnson, and Charles Reinhart were ushers.

Mrs. Nichols wore an electric blue jacket dress, made of lace over taffeta and pink baby roses in her corsage.

Mrs. Bailey selected a pale aqua tulle over taffeta and pink roses in her corsage.
