

WOT, NO GOILS?

'STALAG 17' OPENS TONIGHT

The much publicized "Stalag 17," a rowdy all-male comedy, will open tonight at the Accent Theatre Playhouse, 1207 El Prado for a six-week run.

In the first night audience will be Kathleen Freeman of the Player's Ring and Gallery theatres plus other motion picture and TV personalities. Talent scouts from Universal-International pictures and television will also be present.

Of particular interest is Ed Long, cast as Sefton, who displays a brooding, James Dean quality which has already stimulated attention from the entertainment industry.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of Accent Theatre, or at the door, but to be on the safe side, phone FA 8-2232 for reservations. The play will run Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights through May 18. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Residents Warned of Loose Dog

A dog, suspected to be rabid, has been seen again in the neighborhood where it bit a 5-year-old girl two weeks ago.

Presently undergoing painful Pasteur treatment is Patricia Knybel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Knybel of 5202 Avada st.

She was nipped on the corner of her mouth, in the backyard of the family home, by a small mixed breed dog, probably part cocker spaniel. It was light tan in color and wore a collar and tag.

Mrs. Knybel stated that the dog has been seen in the neighborhood again and appears to be limping. Since there is the danger that the dog is rabid, individuals are warned not to try to corner the dog but to call the South Bay Humane society (PR 2-8100) to have it picked up.
