Mayor Refutes RB Claims for Court

Redondo Beach may be the center of population, but only if they count the fish in the ocean.

So snorted Mayor Albert Isen in response to the assertions by officials of the neighboring city in giving reasons why a new Superior Court should be located in Redondo Beach.

Torrance officials, who have eyed the court for this city, will instead cite reasons for locating it in Torrance at a meeting with county officials today.

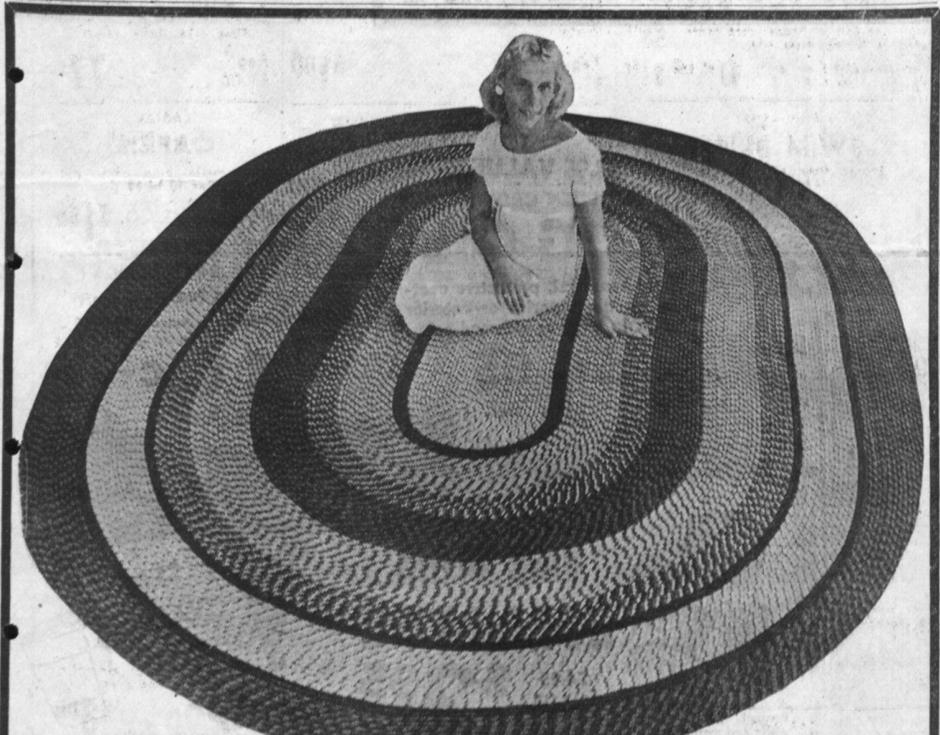

But Isen conceded it may take a long time before a Superior Court is located anywhere in the South Bay area, let alone Redondo Beach.

In Southern California alone there are more than 9,000 victims of crippling multiple sclerosis.
