New Fox Market Opens Today in Northside Center

Fox Markets, Inc. Southern California food chain, today announced the grand opening today of its newest market at 2121 W. 182nd St., Torrance. This brings the total number of supermarkets in the chain to 40, which have been acquired mainly by purchasing other markets, since the first Fox market was established less than five years ago. The new market is located in a shopping center, which also contains a drug store, doctor's office, beauty shop, barber shop, dry cleaners, and a fountain snack bar. There is easy-access parking, with space for 300 cars.

This modern new market has 22,000 square feet of floor space and will carry a full line of domestic and imported fancy foods, including Japanese, Spanish, Mexican, Chinese, and Kosher foods, and has a grocery, delicatessen, meat and frozen foods department, a Van de Kamp bakery, and a completely stocked liquor department. The market also has a kitchenwares department, and carries soft goods, cosmetics and drug sundries.

Another feature in all Fox Markets which will be used here is Sperry and Hutcheson Green Stamps, S & H Green Stamps are the oldest and original trading stamps in America, having been first issued 62 years ago.
