Local students to attend junior college conclave

Delegates from 64 schools in the state are converging on Bakersfield today for the semi-annual California Junior College Student Government association conference.

Representing El Camino college at the three-day conference will be Walter Becker, Patsy O'Reilly, Linda Peterson, Glen Green, George Baena and Advisors Hamilton M. Maudaford and Miss Mary Hancock.

Becker is president of the associated students of El Camino college. Miss O'Reilly is treasurer and Miss Peterson is president of the associated women students. Green is commissioner of assemblies, while Baena holds down the student post of commissioner of activities. Expenses for all will be paid by the associated students.

Some 320 delegates and 128 advisers are expected to attend. Acting as host schools for the conference will be Bakersfield college, Fresno City college, Prterville college, Reedley college, College of the Sequoias, and Taft college.

HEADS DELEGATION: Wait Becker, president of the associated students of El Camino college, is heading a delegation of ECC students attending a student government convention in Bakersfield this week-end.

Quarter horses go at Los Alamitos

The quick quarter horses kick off their 12th season of racing Saturday at Los Alamitos race course and track president Frank Vessels predicted today the 19-day season that winds up December 13 would be the biggest for a fall meeting in the history of the Orange county course.

Vessels said he expected both the attendance and wagering to exceed the figures for last fall when the average daily attendance was 5759 and the average daily wagering $367,297.

Racing will be conducted six days a week, Monday through Saturday, with eight races daily and nine on Saturdays and Thanksgiving Day. First post each day will be 1 p.m., advancing to 12:30 on Saturdays and Thanksgiving Day.

Property insurance gets out of date, too
Insurance is not one of those things you can buy and then forget. No doubt your property is worth more today than when you purchased it. And perhaps you've bought more appliances, done some refurnishing, even added a room or two.
Make sure your insurance covers the present value of your home and possessions.
