Protests Raised Against Planned Shopping Center

Some protests were voiced during the first hearing on a zoning case for a six-acre shopping center at the northeast corner of 174th St. and Yukon Ave., when the program was outlined before the Planning Commission. Six property owners are asking a zone change from residential to commercial zoning. The property owners who are applying for the change are Bert and Mamie Moore, Everett Powell, O. R. Wilson, A. C. Rogge and Edward H. Janoski. Some adjacent property owners objected to parking problems which might be created by the shopping center. A second hearing will be held July 15.
