

Junior Miss Needs Jewelry 'Know How'

It's never too early for a girl to learn how to give her wardrobe that special dash, say fashion authorities.

Co-ordinating a costume with jewelry is an important key to being well dressed on every occasion and can be put into practice by even the grade school set.

The junior miss will soon see that "overloading" just doesn't come off but that a strategically placed pin or the "right" bracelet can do wonders.

One of the most basic items for school wardrobes this fall will be pins. A wardrobe of pins will rate a girl top fashion marks.

Small paired pins will serve as perfect mates for the collar of the popular shirtwaist dress and the new, wide belts will gain an added point with a smart pin through them.

Girls that go for the "Chanel look" can wear their shirt cuffs outside their sweaters, pushing them up to mid-forearm length and spotting two small pins on the cuff.

A big tailored pin, worn on the end, of a chain necklace will be smart this season worn looped over as belt on a sweater.

Pretty pins for the hair will be as popular as ever and will keep the new feminine hairdos sleek and pretty.

Bracelets will also play a big role in the school wardrobe. Matching bracelets on both wrists, a touch of fashion, both fun and smart.

Necklaces with tiny "drops" continue to be top favorites for every age. They may be worn alone or added to any other necklace for another young fashion note.

Newly Formed 'Tent Players' to Make Torrance Their Home

With the purchase of a tent first time in 1950 and though by 1900s.

With the purchase of the tent a reality the little theater group is looking forward to a tent raising ceremony, August 29th. The tent will be located on a city owned lot on Highway 101 in WALTERIA.

Invitations for the opening night are already past the planning stage with many prominent officials an dsocial leaders included on the list.

Members of the group are now on the lookout for a red carpet for the opening night of the non-profit theater group's first production.

"Torrance is an ideal place for location," she says. "The city is large enough to support a good theater and at present has nothing of this type."

June Roisman is directing the first show with Warren Lavender, Duke Schneider, Ethel Dugan, Margaret Walker Patterson, Rita Thompson, Gene Knight, Dick O'Neil will be included in the cast.

The tent theater or theater-in-the-round spells magic to theatergoers, but is nothing new to theater itself says Betty Rink, publicity chairman.

Such a group has already made news on the East coast and is generally the same type of intimate theater used during Shakespeare's time.

Instead of a curtain between acts, the theater is blacked out while the scenery is changed, explains Mrs. Rink. Preferred by most actors and actresses, the theater in the round, has the advantage of enabling the actor to always be in contact with the audience, she adds.

For their first play, slated to open September 4, the group has chosen "Clarambard" a farce by the French playwright Marcel Ayme.

The play was performed for the first time in 1900.

"CLARAMBARD" played by Warren Lavender for the Tent Players' opening show, is in one of his benevolent moods with animals. The French farce is scheduled to open Sept. 4.
