New Bus Fare Hike Date Set

Bus fares on the Los Angeles run will go up a nickel beginning Aug. 16, Marshall Chamberlain, superintendent of Torrance Municipal Bus Lines announced.

The fare hike as well as changes in the Los Angeles line were approved by the Public Utilities Commission last week.

Under the new program designed to cut back losses by $20,000 to $25,000 a year, buses will go to downtown Los Angeles only during the morning and evening rush hours. The rest of the day, the coaches will only go as far as 120th St. and Vermont Ave., where they will have to transfer to other lines.

Chamberlain announced also that the downtown Los Angeles depot will be closed down as of Sept. 1.

Although service on the Los Angeles line was cut, a new service to West Torrance was inaugurated for better public transportation in Southwood, Southwest Park and the Victor Precinct.

Councilman J. A. Beasley, chairman of the Transportation Committee, estimated that the municipal bus line will show a $50,000 deficit for the past year.
